Introduced in 1972, the Aston Martin V8 is a sports car from the British car manufacturer Aston Martin, which replaced the largely identical DBS V8 and was produced in four series until 1989. The eponymous eight-cylinder V engine was available with carburetors or intake manifold injection in various output levels, ranging up to 322 kW (438 hp). Fifty years after the start of production, the V8 is one of Aston Martin's most sought-after classics.

Originally delivered in the USA, this vehicle was registered in the Netherlands via Kroymans in 2015 and registered in Germany by the current owner in 2017. There are several service invoices and an Aston Martin certificate of authenticity, which certifies that the vehicle has a matching number engine. This very tasteful and well-maintained classic is now available to its new owner, 50 years after its production.
