This beautiful second-series Jaguar E-Type was completed on November 28, 1969. After being completed at the Jaguar factory, the car was shipped to New York and registered to its first owner in California. From 1992 to 1996, this E-Type underwent a complete restoration. The Daimler Heritage Trust certifies that the car's factory-installed engine and transmission are authentic. The leather upholstery is from Bartlett and meets the original Jaguar specifications. A photo documentation and numerous invoices document the work, which was carried out by a Jaguar specialist. In 1998, the car was offered for sale by the Appraisal Service dealership in California as a "Show Class Winner." The mileage at that time was 28,140 miles. The current owner purchased this Jaguar 15 years ago and would now like to pass the vehicle on to a new enthusiast.
