Launched in 1970, the MV Agusta 750 S was hand-built, expensive and, with only 583 units built, correspondingly rare. The MV 750 S was developed from the MV Agusta 4C 600cc. The engine was bored out to 743 cc and boosted to 72 hp with four Dell'Orto carburetors. The color scheme of the 750 S was unique and kept in red, white and blue. Today, it is a highly sought-after machine for MV collectors.

This example was deregistered in 1985 and only re-registered 27 years later to the current owner. We have the original old letter at hand. This iconic MV Agusta 750 S has been in the same ownership for 12 years.
