- Fresh engine rebuild for 50,000 euros
- Well-maintained vehicle with a verifiable history
- Rare intermediate version with toggle switches above the dashboard

This Maserati Ghibli is a rare transitional model, easily identified by the following feature: the toggle switches on the dashboard, located above the instrument cluster. The car was originally delivered to Sauro Streccioni in Rome. He sold it in 1976 to the well-known Maserati collector Bernd Ollmann, whose collection included, among other things, the one-of-a-kind Maserati Boomerang. Mr. Ollmann later sold this Ghibli to a friend from Essen. The current owner purchased this beautiful Ghibli 17 years ago. For many years, he served as president of the German Maserati Club and drove the car at numerous meetings and outings. He had the Ghibli completely restored between 2010 and 2011. Five years ago, the engine was completely overhauled at a specialist shop for 50,000 euros. Today, this vehicle is in good overall condition and is ready to hit the road for its next tour. The original seats are included with the vehicle. This car is equipped with power steering.
